People motoring through the city frequently comment very favorably upon the beauty of the college campus, but how many of us ever think about it? Just now with the various flowering shrubs in full bloom it is particularly charming. Take a slant from the museum steps across to Wright hall or the grove and see if you are not ready to confess that you are looking upon one of the beauty spots in town, which in a few years will be a veritable park. The paving of Superior street to the top of the slope and as far as the western line of the campus at least should not be much longer delayed, but meanwhile a good job of road building and graveling would help matters a lot.

BOILED DOWN ITEMS

From the Issue of Sept. 8, 1890

Boys take warning. Playing ball on the main street of the town is prohibited. Anyone violating the rule is liable to arrest and fine.

There is not a town in the county that has the hearty, prosperous growth that Alma has enjoyed this spring. New homes are going up all over the town and more are yet to come.

Marcus Pollasky is in town this week visiting his parents. From here he expects to go to Washington where he expects to complete arrangements for the construction of his California railroad.

The village council Tuesday evening received a proposition from a gentleman from Chicago for the establishment of a sewing machine factory at this place. The company is now organized with a capital of $100,000 and only asks that our citizens take $25,000.

Last night about 9:00 o'clock the alarm of fire was given and it was discovered that the old Palfrey building across the river was the one this time. The building was too far away for the department to do effective work. It was the first frame hotel built in Alma, having been built in 1863.

Alma college started in last Wednesday morning with an attendance of 77. It is hoped the attendance will be larger before long.

Following are the officers elected at the organization of the Hook and Ladder Co., Tuesday night. Foreman, George Young; Asst. Foreman, Will Club; Sec'y, Dewitt Vought; treasurer, F. E.
